Reference: proposed increases of stamp prices

Dear Ms/Sir,

an organisation (Australia Post) which hides behind the front of the Ministry for Broadband-Communications-Digital Economy and is uncontactable through ANY phonebook in Australia. A system most likely designed to ensure not being bothered by plebeians (unwashed) who have the bad idea to question the why & wherefore of anyone and anything? As this might be the thin end of the wedge, exposing the shadowy nature of Postal service. ANY real information regarding Postal services are hidden well away from the nosey public, reluctantly given when on bended-knee PERSONALLY going to a Post Office. NO lists are any more supplied of the entire postal services (costs of appropriate stamps) for any particular country like before. In short, the whole postal system is well overdue, for some clear cleaning. Does ANYONE remember how SILENTLY and unobtrusive the small international moneyorder was killed-off? All this under the guise of security. As far as the price increase ITSELF is concerned, no one will faint as a result of it. But THAT is NOT the REAL question. WHAT will the Postal Service DO, about an unavoidable decline in earnings to IT.

Yours sincerely,

J. Williams.
