I vehemently protest against the application for a stamp price increase by Australia Post. There was an increase just a few years ago.

A lot of the population are either low / no income people or are pensioners and therefore, do not have (can afford) a computer & internet, a mobile phone or even a landline and corresponding by letter is the only way they can communicate and afford. Why penalise these marginalised people!

Do not permit A.P. to slug their long-suffering customers who have no alternative service to which to use.

It is outrageous of A.P. to do this - it has outright, the only postal service monopoly and has held it unopposed since day one, for about two hundred years.

If A.P. cannot make a profit out of this unopposed business by now then it must be unwieldy, incompetent and totally unbusinesslike.

Why not permit another company to supply the same and an infinitely better service.

Do not approve any postal increase.
