

Follow up email from my phone call this afternoon on 25th August 2009. Re. Postage price increase:

I object to another increase in postage at this time; because Aug/september 2008 there was an increase of 10% from 50 cents up to 55 centsthis was reasonable as we hadn't had an increase for a while.....to try and have another 5 cents added again so soon would mean that from 2008 (50 cents) to this increase in 2010 to (60 cents) they would have increased the cost of postage by 20% this is too much in a short period of time. I sympathise with the problems they face in the market place, but they have created more business in other areas to help compensate. Postage costs in Australia are very high as it is.

I am certainly objecting to this increase. How many people can expect a 20% payrise over a couple of years, for no extra work output.
